JUST A WORD TO OUR VALUED SUBSCRIBERS.

Before you finish reading this issue of the CENTRAL RECORD look at the label and see how your subscription stands. If it shows your subscription is due or past due, don't wait another day, but send us the money RIGHT NOW.

One dollar may be a small matter to you, but several hundred others thinking about the matter as you do keeps us out of the use of several hundred dollars. The label on your paper will show just how your subscription stands. For instance, if the figures opposite your name read like this: "Jul-15" it means your subscription expired July 1 of this year, and on that date you owe us $1 to pay you up to July, 1916. The first figure is the number of the month and the second two figures the year on which your subscription expired.

Bear in mind that our terms are strictly cash. This means you, if you are in arrears, so do not lay the paper aside and pay no attention to this notice. Act at once and SEND US THAT DOLLAR. You may never miss it but it will help us wonderfully. We have faith enough in our subscribers to believe that since we have called their attention to this little matter, all who owe us will pay up at once. Send the money by P. O. Money Order or check, or enclose a dollar bill in your letter and send it to Sunday was a beautiful day, and was taken advantage of by everyone who could spare up an automobile.

Between the repairs on the court house and the improvement to the park, the public square is surely "littered".

Funny how the fellow you would have been willing to bet your roll would never buy an automobile drives into town in a new machine.

Less than a month and the fool who took the wrong end of an election bet will be seen pushing a peanut along the street with a toothpick.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the New Antioch church will have an exchange Saturday afternoon, Oct. 16th at Harry Andersons store.

Many lament the cutting down of the trees in the park, but they were decaying badly, and within a few years will be supplanted by much more ornamental shrubbery.

The new year began October 1st. The Treasurer, Mrs. Mary Price, would be pleased if the members would pay their dues and save her the trouble of calling on them.

Trying to do business without advertising is like winking at a pretty girl through a pair of green goggles. You may know what you are doing, but nobody else does.

Apollo is said to be the first gentleman who ever struck a lyre. If he had had only hit him a little harder we might not have so many magnificent liars at the present time.

"Mary," said the sick man to his wife, when the doctor had pronounced it a case of smallpox, "if any of my creditors call, tell them I am at last in position to give them something."

The W. C. T. U. has started a circulating library for Garrard county under the leadership of Mrs. Emma Kauffman. The books have been sent out to Miss Kavanaugh's school first.

It is hardly probable that there will be any pumpkin or kershaw connects this fall. These are among the few farm products which fell below the average in size and quality this season.

Sim Anderson and Harry Tomlinson are gathering together all the stray curs in town and corraling them in Jim Beasley's back yard, which is a sure sign that the coon hunting season is near at hand.

The year 1915 still has three months left to its credit, but, in the progress made in its first three-quarters, it has more to its credit of substantial achievement for Kentucky's immediate and lasting betterment than any decade of years in the last half century. Think of the good roads being built here and elsewhere.

The Baptist Ladies Aid will have an exchange on Wednesday before Thanksgiving and also a Bazar on Dec. 11th.

Heavy rains the latter part of last week swelled the streams of the county, and put a temporary stop to the cutting of corn and tobacco.

The congregation of the Methodist church is holding a week of prayer, preliminary to their protracted meeting which begins on next Monday.

"The scarest things on earth to day are men," sighs the Central Record. One might judge from that that the Record's editor was an unmarried woman of, say thirty-five. —Winchester Democrat.

According to Bangs Landram the editor is a woman whose husband goes fishing, —hence the sigh.

It is stated in the public press that Mr. Bryan intends to sail for Europe. Such an announcement comes with quite a shock. How does he square such action with the advice he has given all good American citizens to keep away from the war zone, and by so doing cease to embarrass the President?

Those interested in the improvement of the park fully realize they are public servants and as such ask the cooperation of every interested person. A blue print of the plans and specification, drawn by a landscape artist, will be found at Stormes Drug Store. Suggestions will be thankfully received and questions cheerfully answered.

"The trouble with Georgia," says a writer to the New York Sun, "is that she thinks too little of Mary Phagan alive and too much of Mary Phagan dead."

A State where there is no law against child labor and where as a result the children of the poorer classes of whites are growing up in illiteracy through slavery to factory and mill, is without defense against the charge.

SOME CORN.

A farmer near our town got lost in his cornfield and wandered around two days shouting for help before he was located by the neighbors and two months ago they said there would be no corn.

A WALKER CAN'T DO IT.

Judge Lewis L. Walker, of Lancaster, is a Republican who comes from a Democratic family, while his opponent for Lieutenant Governor, Jas D. Black, is a Democrat who comes from a Republican family. Judge Black can't be beat by a Walker. It will take a runner to do it. —Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

He says he can go all the gaits.

POPULAR COLORED MAN

Clay Green, who has waited table and portered at the local hotels for the last decade, died Wednesday of dropsy at his home in this city. Clay was probably the best known colored man to the traveling fraternity in Central Kentucky, his face was familiar to every one who ever made Lancaster. Always affable, polite and accommodating, his passing will mark the disappearance of one of Lancaster's most popular colored people.

JOE ARNOLD INJURED.

Joe Arnold, conductor on "Old Henry", was injured at the local station one day last week by striking against a car on a siding. The car did not clear, and Joe not knowing this was struck by it. He suffered a compound fracture of an arm, a dislocated wrist and severe bruised. His injuries while very painful, we are glad to say are not of a serious nature, and we hope to see him back on his run in a few weeks. Joe is a Garrard county boy, has many friends and relatives here, who are grieved at his misfortune, but rejoiced that they are not of a more serious nature, as his escape was a narrow one.

GOOD MEETING.

A card from Rev. F. M. Tinder announces that he will return home Saturday from Bradfordsville where he has had a successful meeting, being greeted each night with immense audiences and a number of confessions. He will preach Sunday morning at the Christian church.

CLOUD BURST.

A cloud burst at the head of Dix river last Monday afternoon did considerable damage to the farmers along this stream and the waters of Cedar creek, both of which were out of their banks and crops and some stock were lost as a result of the high water. It is estimated that the damage will reach several thousand dollars.

A "RED" BAT.

In removing the rubbish from the court house last Saturday one of the workmen discovered a red bat, which has been attracting quite a great deal of interest among those who have seen it. It has been placed in a nice cage and can be seen at the main court house entrance. It is quite a curiosity and is thought by many to be the only one in captivity.

TO COLORADO.

John Magee, wife and son left yesterday morning for Blanca, Colorado, where they will make their future home. Before leaving Mr. Magee purchased a new Ford car and the trip will be made by automobile. —Mr. Keene Lutes has leased from Mr. Magee his residence in the Highlands. —Danville Advocate.

TOEING THE MARK.

Automobile drivers are coming right up to the letter of the law, and the new regulations are proving of much benefit to the public and likewise the drivers. All machines must be parked near the court house, and stand diagonally from pavements. This last rule is to enable machines to get out without moving others, and is a good idea. —Danville Messenger.

Such laws should be put into practice in Lancaster.

A WELL KEPT PARK.

One of the best evidences of a rising, up-to-date town is a well kept park. Even if, of necessity, it must be small it serves its purpose by showing strangers that the citizens of the town take pride in its appearance. Yet this park must be well-kept, else it is worse than none at all. Authorities can see that it does not become the loafing place for all the "gentlemen of leisure" in the village. Every town which has a small park recognizes a good thing when they see it and every town which does not possess a park has still a good thing coming. We have a good thing coming as the improvements on our park is now assured. When completed it will be the best evidence our citizens can give of civic pride.

ROBINSON.

After an illness of several months of tuberculosis, Mrs. Gertrude Weber Robinson died at her home in Chattanooga. Deceased was the wife of James B. Robinson, of that city, but formerly of Lincoln and much sympathy is felt for him in the loss of a devoted companion. Mrs. Robinson was the daughter of the late William M. Weber, who lived many years in Mt. Vernon, was a graduate of Hamilton College, with high honors in the class of 1893. Beside her husband, she is survived by her mother, three sisters and three children. In announcing her death, the Chattanooga Times says: "as daughter, wife, mother, sister and friend, her life was spent for others and not for self, and her passing away is an irreparable loss to many relatives and friends."

GROWTH OF SUFFRAGE SENTIMENT IN KENTUCKY

The eighty-third annual State convention of the Christian church of Kentucky, in session at Madisonville, unanimously endorsed woman suffrage by a resolution adopted Sept. 22. President R. H. Crossfield of Transylvania College, Lexington, presented the resolution to the convention. It was seconded by the Rev. D. M. Walker of Stanford and Rev. Homer W. Carpenter of Shelbyville in brief but enthusiastic speeches. When the vote was put by Dr. E. B. Barnes of Richmond, president of the convention, there was the heartiest endorsement, not a voice being heard in opposition. Following is the resolution:

"Whereas, the principle of equal suffrage is founded on justice and righteousness and has been a mighty factor in the elimination of the open saloon, gambling, the white slave traffic and other forms of crime and vice, where women have been given the franchise.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we, both Christian and Democratic, endorse the principle of equal suffrage as both Christian and Democratic and one that should prevail in Kentucky and in the nation."

The 13th annual Kentucky State fair, which was held in Louisville Sept. 13 to 18, beat all previous records in every respect, and a progressive suffrage spirit was noticeable in the attitude of the thousands of visitors. Mrs. R. A. McDowell, chairman of the suffrage tent work, said at the end of the first day: "We notice a decided change in the attitude of the public to woman suffrage. Frivolity is gone."

Mrs. McDowell was assisted by a different group of women each day. Mrs. Robert M. Carrier instituted a "Corn Day", and induced a great many farmers to contribute a bushel of corn each to the suffrage fund. Mrs. Herbert Mengel, president of the Louisville Association of 3,000 members, did yeoman service. Mrs. Samuel Heming had charge of the speakers, who gave 15 minute suffrage talks.

More cards were signed in the six days than there were members of the Kentucky Equal Rights Association three years ago. This fact points, more than any other, to the steady and substantial growth of suffrage sentiment in Kentucky.

It Always Does the Work.

"I like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy better than any other," writes R. E. Roberts, Homer City, Pa. "I have taken it off and on for years and it has never failed to give the desired results." For sale by all dealers.

HAIR AND SCALP NEEDS DAILY CARE.

If you value the appearance of your hair you should treat your scalp as often and well as you brush your teeth and rub into the scalp pores twice daily a little Parisian Sage. This treatment is not a mere "hair tonic." It is bottled nourishment for the hair roots and it is simply wonderful what an improvement is use for even a week will make in the appearance of anyone's hair. It never injures, is delightfully cool and pleasant to the scalp and takes out the dull, lifeless look in the hair, making it soft, fluffy, glossy and beautiful. Two or three applications remove every trace of dandruff, and daily use will prevent its return. R. E. McRoberts and the leading druggists everywhere can furnish you with Parisian Sage—it cost but a trifle.

HOOKWORM BELT CIRCLES THE GLOBE.

The Rockefeller Foundation, is making public its annual report, covering the period to the end of 1914, tells what has been accomplished by its international Health Commission in mitigating the ravages of the hookworm disease in tropical countries.

The report says that the relief and control of the disease is an undertaking of enormous magnitude, as the infection belts the globe in a zone on both sides of the Equator, 66 degrees wide and with a population of about 900,000,000 souls. Thus far plans have been adopted and work begun for the control of the disease in British Guiana, Antigua, Trinidad, St. Lucia, Grenada and Egypt.

In addition to the work undertaken in the British colonies the commission has responded favorably to invitations from several Central American countries and work has been inaugurated in Panama, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and Guatemala.

What Would You Do?

There are many times when one man questions another's actions and motives. Men act differently under different circumstances. The question is, what would you do right now if you had a severe cold? Could you do better than to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended by people who have used it for years and know its value. Mrs. O. E. Sargent, Peru, Ind., says, "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is worth its weight in gold and I take pleasure in recommending it." For sale by all dealers.

Seasonable.

Now comes the lovely time of year When voters all elate, Extract great stores of "candy" clear From out the candi-date.

Why Not Publish It?

When you want a fact to become generally known, the right way is to publish it. Mrs. Joseph Kallans, Peru, Ind., was troubled with belching, sour stomach and frequent headaches. She writes, "I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me. They have helped my digestion and regulated my bowels. Since using them I have been entirely well." For sale by all dealers. 1-m.

NOTHING SATISFIES MAN.

Man that is born of woman is of few days and many grows. When the spring comes, gentle Annie, and the rain waters the earth he complaineth because of the mud and a few weeks later his soul is grieved because of the exceeding muchness of the dust. In the winter he cryeth it is too cold and in the summer he would fain join an Arctic expedition that he may escape from the summer heat. When the sun shineth brightly it hurteth his eyes; when it hideth behind a cloud it giveth him the blues. When the wind bloweth he curseth the cyclone, and when it stoppeth joy departeth from him and he moaneth. O give us a breeze. Yes, verily there is nothing which satisfieth man. He cometh into this world crying, and he leaveth it grumbling. And this, too, is vanity.

SPEAKER'S FAMILY OUT FOR SUFFRAGE.

Mrs. R. L. Motley of the Bowling Green Equal Suffrage League, write of a visit to Honeyshuck, Speaker Champ Clark's home: "Honeyshuck is a regular hotbed of suffrage. Mrs. Pitzer of Colorado, sister of Mrs. Clark is visiting there, and says she could not remain in a State where she had no citizenship, so will return to her own State soon. I had a splendid talk with Mrs. Clark, who said she had no sympathy with the antis, but they were fast disappearing, just as the Tories did during the Revolution. 'I want to stand up and be counted now, nor do I want anybody else to answer for me,' she remarked. Speaker Clark himself predicted that the women would have suffrage by 1917. He advocates an Amendment to the Missouri Constitution. 'I am for it, first, last and all the time,' he said, 'and what is more, it is coming.'"

THE BEST PROOF

Given By A Lancaster Citizen.

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they brought benefit.

The story was told to Lancaster residents. Time has strengthened the evidence. Has proven the result lasting. The testimony is home testimony—The proof convincing. It can be investigated by Lancaster residents.

Mrs. J. W. Pumphrey, Danville St., Lancaster, says: "I suffered a great deal from backache and couldn't sleep well. On several occasions my back became so painful and weak that I was unable to do my house work. I got Doan's Kidney Pills at R. E. McRoberts and Son's Drug Store, and they helped me from the first. I was soon relieved." (Statement given March 20th, 1908).

OVER THREE YEARS LATER. Mrs. Pumphrey said: "I haven't had any kidney trouble since I used Doan's Kidney Pills with such great benefit." Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Pumphrey had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

PRESIDENT AND CABINET KNELT IN PRAYER TO GOD.

How President Wilson went down on his knees and led his cabinet in prayer at a recent meeting was told in Indianapolis by Bishop William F. Anderson of Cincinnati, at a session of the Indiana Methodist Episcopal Conference.

A United States Senator told the bishop of the incident, he said the Senator had heard it from one of the cabinet members who prayed with the President.

"When the President arrived at the cabinet meeting," said Bishop Anderson, "his face wore a solemn look. It was evident that serious affairs of the Nation were on his mind. He said to the cabinet members, 'I don't know whether you men believe in prayer or not. I do. Let us pray and ask the help of God.'"

"And right there, the President of the United States fell upon his knees and the members of the Cabinet did the same and the President offered a prayer to God. While the war rages in Europe, we in this country should thank God that in this crisis of the world we have a chief executive who is a servant of God and who stands with his hand in the hand of God. Every minister in the land should, every time he offers a prayer, take Woodrow Wilson by the hand and lead him into the presence of God, and ask that he be given strength to continue to be the great apostle of peace among men."

There was a chorus of "amens" from the ministers. Later a telegram expressing the confidence of the delegates in him was sent to the President.

BARNUM AND BAILEY

Have Hundreds of New Features.

The Barnum and Bailey Greatest Show on Earth, which comes to RICHMOND on Friday October 15 claim to present this year "A Circus of All Nations," meaning one that is filled with all new features shown now for the first time and presented by 480 world-famed artists who represent every nation in the world. The entire world has been scoured by special Barnum and Bailey agents so that practically all the arenic stars that are really worth seeing take part.

The time-honored custom has always been to refer to each successive year's circus as "bigger and better than ever" but the phrase has become so hackneyed that, this year, Barnum and Bailey hesitate to use it, despite the fact that it adequately describes the entertainment. More railroad cars are required to transport the show, bigger tents are raised, more area is needed to accommodate the show than ever before. In fact, the circus has reached a point where it is the despair of many of the smaller railroads and taxes their facilities to the limit, for eighty-five cars are needed to convey the gigantic canvas city from town to town.

There's material enough in this year's circus to make a dozen circuses of the old days. A "big top" 680 feet long, nearly 1,500 employees, three rings, four elevated platforms, acres of aerial apparatus, the biggest stage ever erected for a dramatic presentation, a 110-cage menagerie, 750 horses, forty elephants, a street parade three miles long.

Among the novelties offered this season are the "Six Riding Hannafords," "The Paldrens," balancing, pyramiding and head jumping on the tops of burning lamps, "Pallenberg's Wonder Bears," "Adgie" and her den of nine performing African lions, Barnum and Bailey statue horses, Madam Bradna's Angel Horses. Three great herds of war elephants, trained and shown by the first and only lady elephant trainers. Besides these, are 60 acrobats, 60 acrobats and 60 clowns.

A wonderful prelude to this great circus in the presentation of the new, magnificent, spectacular pageant, "Lalla Rookh" in which more than 1000 characters take part. Everyone should get an early start on circus day in order to be there in time for the parade which starts at 10 A. M., and which is said to be three miles long.

THE MODERN FARM HOME THE IDEAL HOME.

The rural mail delivery, the telephone, good roads, and the automobile all combine to annihilate distances. This will also enable the consolidation of the rural schools to be brought about and will bring them up to the standard of the city schools. The last condition remaining for making the farm home equal to or better than the city home, is the installation of modern conveniences consisting of a heating system, water supply, toilet and bath room, power washing machine, and lighting plant. All these can be installed for a few hundred dollars.

The farm home will then become the ideal home. A home where bodily strength, manhood and character can be developed to the highest standard of perfection, free from the contaminating evils that are rampant in the larger centers of population.

Worn Out?

REGARD FOR THE LAW.

Ignorance of the Law is no excuse and disregard of the Law is a crime. When Laws are so obnoxious as to afford excuses for non-compliance they should be changed, and the people have this right. "If your right hand offend you, cut it off," was no idle injunction, but means the offense should be removed rather than the mutilation of the member.

Our Tax Laws are distasteful and detrimental, but the remedy should be to amend them instead of allowing them to undermine the morals of the people by openly disregarding them.

The successful evasion of one Law may encourage the violation of others and in time breed a contempt for all Laws.

While every citizen owes obedience to the Laws, the Laws should be made fair and equal to every citizen.

The Tax Laws are neither fair nor equal and are productive of deceit and dishonor and if for no other reason than this should be changed.

UNIFORM TAXATION.

Property differs so greatly in character and earning power it has always been impossible to tax the various kinds uniformly. Every attempt to tax movable property the same as immovable property has failed and will always fail. "Two wrongs do not make a right," and when assessors find it impossible to discover the ownership of movable property and undertake to square things by lowering the assessment of immovable property, there is no right or justice in it and everybody suffers in mind and matter. The more stringent the Law to uncover movable property the faster it moves and hides, and this fact is so well established the assessors in most counties let movable property go by default. So-called uniform taxation is a delusion and a snare. It may suffice to fool the ignorant, but the knowing ones just laugh at it. This is rough on the poor man whose all is in sight and immovable, and is also tough on the rich man who defies the law and hides his wealth from the assessor, for he knows he is doubly guilty in saving himself at the expense of his less fortunate neighbor.

EQUITABLE TAXATION.

The differences in property call for differences in taxation just as "one star differs from another," and yet all the stars and all the property serve their purposes. The man who puts his money in Securities issued on property already taxed and paying more taxes because of the improvements justified by the man's money, is just as useful a citizen as the man who puts his money in lands and houses; but when the first man objects to giving up the greater part of the earnings on his securities, issued on property already taxed, he is looked upon as a tax dodger, and the man with the houses and lands who cannot so readily escape denounces a tax system which seems so unfair. Ask this man to surrender a half to three-fourths of the income from his houses and lands and there would be another tale. The revenue of the first man is limited, while that of the other is unlimited, and yet there are people who cannot see the distinction. Equitable taxation is based on the earning power of all property, in just proportion, and if any partiality is shown it should be in favor of the man who risks his money to improve houses and lands owned by others, which may depreciate, but cannot fly away.

TAX AMENDMENT.

The Tax Amendment was carried by thirty thousand majority two years ago, but because the Secretary of State failed to advertise it ninety instead of sixty days before the election, as the Constitution requires, it must be voted on again at the November Election. The welfare of the State demands the re-adoption of this important measure and every fair-minded citizen should vote for it.

KENTUCKY NEEDS

A good many things to place the State in the rank she deserves in the march of prosperity, but when sifted down the greatest need of all is a new Tax System that will attract instead of repel capital, which guarantees cheap money for the improvement of farms and development of local industries. Although one of the oldest States, centrally located and with marvelous natural advantages, other and less favored States have outstripped us, and, as someone has aptly said, "Kentucky is an island of comparative poverty surrounded by a Sea of industrial prosperity." And why? The answer is because of our repellent Tax System. Equitable taxation means cheap money. Easy money means improvement and development. Industrial enterprise keeps the people at home and increases the population. More people means more consumers of our home products. Close markets means good prices, and all of this has been retarded because some wise acres borrowed a so-called Uniform Tax Law from another State which had been striving to get rid of it for forty years and which shows that an intolerant politician may not always be a tolerable patriot, or Kentucky would not have been throttled in the way she has been.

The Womans Club

(Edited By The Womans Club)

That the Kentucky Federation of Women's Club has 24,230 members and 168 clubs, operating in seventy-two counties, is shown by the statistical report just compiled and published. This fine showing is somewhat noteworthy in that this is the twenty-first year of the organization—the year of its majority. The largest club, the Woman's Emergency Association numbers 8,453 members, the smallest club of the Federation is the Perryville Civic League with eight members. Among the large clubs are the Louisville Suffrage Association with 2,700 members; the Louisville Parent-Teacher Association, having 2,000 members; the Fayette Equal Rights Association, numbering 1,700; the Business Woman's Club of Louisville, 816; the Federation of Mothers' Clubs in Louisville, 400; the Louisville Woman's Club, 399, and the Burbon County Health and Welfare League, with 349 enrolled. Of the five districts into which the Federation is divided, the first district has thirty-two clubs with approximately 600 members, the second has thirty-two clubs and 1,200 clubwomen; the third, fifty-four clubs and 4,500 women; the fourth, sixteen clubs and 650 women; the fifth, thirty-four clubs and 17,000 women.

The president of the Womans Club was delighted with the practically unanimous acceptance of the invitation she issued for all club members to be present Oct. 1st to receive a year book and spend a social hour together. This was intended for a pleasant break in the routine of the years work.

Tomorrow Mrs. Curry leads the meeting her subject being "Colonial Artists." We have every member will be present at this first meeting and begin a delightful years study.

COHEN TO QUIT RING.

Mat S. Cohen, recently nominated as the Democratic candidate for Commissioner of Agriculture, and well known as one of Kentucky's foremost horsemen, has definitely announced that he will retire from the saddle horse business at the close of the present season, and that all his paraphernalia, the accumulation of thirty years in the saddle horse business, will be sold at auction in the February sale at Lexington, Ky. —Farmers Home Journal.

When Sarah Bernhardt dies and Mat Cohen dies and we know they will quit showing, but not until then.

OPEN AIR BABY SCORES.

The grand prize baby of Illinois is Charlotte M. Underwood, 3 years and 6 months old. Charlotte is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Underwood, of Bloomington, Ill. She left the Better Babies' Contest at the Illinois State Fair with three silver cups and two medals, one gold, the other bronze. Her score was 98 percent perfection. Charlotte always has slept out of doors! She had no artificial food until she was ten months old. Stacy A. Van Patten, Jr., 3 years and 3 months old, was declared to be the most perfect boy baby in the State of Illinois. Stacey registered 97.5 percent. His one imperfection was that he is a fraction short for his age. Perhaps if his parents put him in the open air to sleep he will gain this half point and equal the prize girl baby.

"TIPPERARY" NOW A HYMN.

More than 100 Baptist ministers adapted the tune of "Tipperary" to the words of a hymn of their own composition at a recent conference, as a means of attracting public attention to their religious. "We should utilize popular ditties which everybody whistles and sings in order to focus attention upon the church," declared the Rev. Clarence Woolston, the author. Here's the way the chorus goes: "It's a good thing to be a christian. It's the best thing I know; It's a good thing to be a christian. Wherever you may go, Goodbye sin and Satan; Farewell all that's bad. It's a good thing to be a christian. For it makes my heart glad."

IS YOUR SILO READY?

It now looks as if the majority of the corn will have a hard time setting on account of the abundance of rain and if we have an early frost, an immense loss will be sustained. Those who have silos sufficient to take care of their needs are in a fortunate position, as every stalk put in the silo will be saved and its feeding value increased two-fold. Too late now, if you haven't a silo but make a resolution now and keep it—that you will place your order for a silo before the first day of April. Study the proper feeding for the results you wish to secure and you will find a silo the best paying investment on the farm. Every thing eats silage but the dog and the cook.

SCHOOL NOTES.

BY WILL RICE AMON.

Mrs. W. R. Todd was not able to teach Tuesday because of illness.

The school is still growing. Five more pupils were added last week.

Miss Ruth Carrier, one of Mrs. Todd's pupils, delighted the school Friday morning with a reading.

Mr. Wiatt, a Transylvania student, visited the school Monday and gave an enjoyable and helpful talk.

The Lancaster High School's first foot ball game will be played Friday on the home grounds against Caldwell High School of Richmond. A good game is expected. Don't fail to see it. Admission 15 and 25 cents.

A young man had called upon his best girl the night before. As a result he had but poorly prepared his Virgil lesson. In spite of this fact he translated fairly well for a short time but after reading "and I put my arms around her" he suddenly stopped unable to translate farther and said: "That is as far as I got Professor." The instructor's reply was "That is far enough young man."

The essential apparatus of baseball is simple and inexpensive. All that is required is a field, a stick, the ball itself and police protection for the umpire. One advantage of the game as played professionally is that those sitting in the grand stand can play the game a great deal better than the eighteen men on the diamond. It is also true that anyone perched on a telegraph pole across the street or looking through a knothole in the fence beyond right field, can judge of the pitcher's skill or the runner's fleetness much more intelligently than the arbiter who stands behind the batter. The great merit of the game is that the people can participate in it. It is not like bridge whist. Its science is not synonymous with silence. The thing to do is take off your coat and root as long and as loudly as you can even if you don't know what is happening.

Toned Up Whole System.

"Chamberlain's Tablets have done more for me than I ever dared hope for," writes Mrs. Esther Mae Baker, Spencerport, N. Y. "I used several bottles of these tablets a few months ago. They not only cured me of bilious attacks, sick headaches and that tired feeling, but toned up my whole system." For sale by all dealers.

TOM TOM THE PIPERS SON.

"Tom Tom the Pipers Son" of the nursery rhymes never had a thing on that smiling cheery Sun Burned Scott "Roy K. Chapman" as he comes scripping down the street with his drummers, ahead of the Coburn Blues in their daily street parade. Dressed in the highland costume of the Seaforth Scotch Highlanders his pipes a droning and plaidie flying, it must be admitted that Coburn Minstrels have again put one over for novelty in street advertisement. Chapman is also a clever singer comedian and dancer and will appear with the company in the night performance next Saturday night at the Romans Opera House. Don't forget to watch for that street parade.

Farms All Taken.

The Connecticut board of agriculture is authority for the statement that there is not an abandoned farm in that state, the demand for vegetables, tobacco, small fruits, poultry and other farm products having brought back into use land that was long neglected.

USE DIRECT LIGHT FOR NEEDLEWORK.

If you value your eyesight never attempt to do darning or other fine needlework by anything except a strong, direct light.

Although the new indirect lighting, with its soft shadow, is ideal for most kinds of work, it is not the best for sewing.

For that you will get the best results with the least eye strain only from a strong, direct light with its harsh shadows.

The reason of this is that the discrimination of detail under such circumstances as are found in sewing is dependent almost entirely either on shadow or on the direction of the light.

Where the surface of an object is uneven, but uniform in color, the only way in which the unevenness can be shown up is by differences in the illumination of such surfaces caused by the different angles which they present to the incident light. If the unevennesses are very deep they will be shown up by the shadows which are thrown up by the raised portions on to the surrounding surfaces.

For instance, the embossed lettering used on some note paper depends entirely on this action, and a sculpture in bas-relief must obviously present a very different appearance according as it is illuminated by unidirectional light at glancing incidence or by light from a large source striking it mainly at normal incidence.

The question has a wide practical application in working on fabrics of one color with no natural contrasts. A person doing needlework with such materials depends for the discrimination of the detailed strands of the fabric on the small shadows cast by one strand on to the next and on the varying brightness over the curved surfaces of each individual strand. Both these factors depend on the unidirectional character of the light incident on the material, and the inefficiency of indirect light for such work is most marked.

MORE USES FOR FRESH VEGETABLES.

Vegetable Chowder.—Cut three thick slices of salt pork into dice shaped pieces and fry a nice brown. Chop three large onions fine, and add to the pork while frying, stirring often so they will not burn. Put six quarts of hot water in a deep agate pot. Put the pork, pork fat and onions in the pot containing the water. Then add one-half cupful of barley and three large potatoes, chopped fine, one teaspoonful of thyme, salt and pepper to taste, one-half can of tomatoes, one tablespoonful of lard and 5 cents' worth of soup greens all chopped fine. Boil four hours, stirring often. To convert the above into clam chowder add three bunches of soft shelled clams, chopped fine, with the liquor that comes with them, to the vegetable chowder and boil all together.

Cream of Asparagus Soup.—Cut off the tips of a bunch of asparagus. Cut the rest of the stalks in half inch pieces and cover with water. Add a small onion and a sprig of celery and simmer for an hour and a half. Half an hour before taking from the fire add the tips in a little cheesecloth bag or small wire strainer. When the hour and a half is up remove the tips and put the rest of the asparagus through a vegetable press. Heat and thicken with flour and butter rubbed together—a cupful of asparagus stock. Then add to the same amount of hot milk and serve with the asparagus tips in it. Season with paprika and salt.

Odds and Ends.

To remove ink stains from a book apply oxalic acid on the tip of a camel's hair brush and soak up with blotting paper.

Add a tablespoonful of table salt to the gasoline when sponging clothes and the rings usually left on the garments will be avoided.

The fine steel brushes used on suede shoes are much better to remove the shine from worn cloth than is pumice stone. These small brushes cost 25 cents and can be conveniently carried when traveling. Use a circular motion when brushing.

Cut pieces about two inches wide and three long from the heels of old rubbers, peel off the cloth and sew them inside the heels of your rubbers. They are rough and sticky and will cling fast to the shoe and entirely stop that disagreeable trait some rubbers have of slipping off at the heel.

A Suffrage Note.

The New Jersey Woman Suffrage association has opened a branch headquarters in Trenton. Mrs. E. F. Felchert, the president, feels that the capital city will be a strategic point during the remaining two months of the campaign. The National American Woman Suffrage association has offered to put the new branch in charge of one of their best trained workers, Miss Lavina Engle.

Miss Engle has for the last six months been doing suffrage organization work in West Virginia, her native state. Although one of the youngest of the suffrage workers, Miss Engle has achieved an enviable reputation for efficiency. Also she has won a reputation as an excellent cook and is the author of a book on the science and art of sandwich making.

The Part of Wisdom.

A good housewife will throw away at least one pair of her husband's old shoes every year.

In case you have guests and they engage in a heated political controversy, start up the phonograph.

Letting the children run barefoot in summer will save money in shoes, but it makes the soap bill larger.

Burning a large onion on a red hot shovel will do away with the odor of tobacco in your drawing room.

Making the Little Farm Pay

By C. C. BOWSFIELD.

In shaping a little farm program to embrace a variety of money making products the owner will find that muskmelons fit nicely into the scheme.

Muskmelons thrive in northern latitudes almost as well as in the south. They will yield good crops on ordinary soil, are easily cultivated and return an acreage profit equal to other high class commodities.

Muskmelons do well where watermelons will not mature at all. It is not to be inferred that this crop does not need rich soil, but the general experience is that ordinary garden cultivation will give good results. A light, well drained piece of land is to be chosen. A field that has had clover for a couple of years is best. When the sod is turned in the fall eight or ten tons of barnyard manure should be plowed in to a depth of seven or eight inches. A light black loam on clay subsoil does very well if the field is drained, but select a sandy loam if possible, and fertilize it as seems necessary.

While melons will not stand soggy land, they need regular moisture. Therefore the ideal place is a drained field, and in a drought it pays to put on water. Sod land is porous to a good depth and so remains for a season after breaking. In case there is no clover on the farm a field of blue grass or other sod can be worked up nicely for the muskmelon crop. The big money in growing muskmelons lies chiefly in the production of a high grade of stock, and therefore it must be the aim to have uniformity. Quality and a good yield generally go together. The preparation of the soil should include disking and harrowing in the spring. This not only works the soil into nice condition but clears out the weeds.

As early melons usually prove most profitable, the plants are started in hotbeds or cold frames. They can be grown in flowerpots or plant boxes, using different sizes for this purpose. A compost may be made for these boxes or for the hotbeds. This is composed of about two parts of rotted horse manure to one part rich, sandy soil, new soil from the woods being preferred. Poultry droppings added to this compost are beneficial. Have this prepared soil thoroughly mixed before placing it or the seeds will not get an even start. Keep the ground moist, but not drenched. After the plants are ten days old they are to be thinned down, and only the strongest and healthiest are kept for the open field. When plants are a little more than a month old or when danger of frost is over they should be transplanted to the field. Mark off the plot both ways and set the plants five feet apart without disturbing the roots. Soil should be pressed firmly around them, care being taken not to injure either plants or roots.

This kind of treatment brings on an early crop and gets the highest profits. At the same time later plantings can be made in order to lengthen the season. In starting the crop outdoors an ounce of seed will plant fifty hills. Too much attention cannot be given to cultivation. Keep the ground clean and in a mulched condition. Where water is scarce or has to be hauled a long distance it will not pay to irrigate, and hence it may not pay to raise large patches of melons. In a good growing season or where the water supply can be controlled it is not unreasonable to expect a crop of muskmelons worth $500 an acre. This is a product that is easily marketed, as it ships well and does not spoil very fast. Those intending to cultivate the crop regularly for market need to give some attention to the selection of seed in order to get early and popular varieties.

Growing Potatoes.

To guard against disease and inferior quality of potatoes it is necessary to rotate crops.

Grow alfalfa, clover or peas two or three years, grain one year and potatoes one year is a good system.

Select good seed. Too much indifference with regard to the quality of seed results in crops of inferior quality, and the amount consumed is far less than if a good quality is produced.

"Instead of destroying, it has healed".
This is President Wilson's description of the war of secession, given by him to the Grand Army veterans beginning their reunion in Washington. He calls it unique among wars. Perhaps it is not that; there is still misunderstanding enough between North and South,
as there is between East and West, because this is a big country and its interests are diverse. Yet the North knows the South better and understands it more thoroughly than it did in 1860, and the South reciprocates. But for the war that better understanding would not have come about. It was a hard lesson that the two sections learned, but it was worth Cemetery Ridge and the Bloody Angle for the South to find out that the North was not made up of mudsills, and for the North to know at last that the South was not composed of vainglorious boasters.

It is, the President says, "a miracle of the spirit." It was "one of the very "few wars in which in one sense everybody concerned may take pride."

In more senses than one. When, over two years ago, the remnant of Pickett's and Heth's division "charged" up Cemetery Ridge again, and the remains of Webb's division bent down over the stone wall to help their old enemies up the ascent, it was not an act of forgiveness, but of reunion. When the old foes of the gray and the blue walked arm in arm together down the Emmitsburg Road in the setting sun, nobody was forgiving anybody; the war was not a thing to be forgotten or forgiven, it had become a thing of the past, a thing to be talked of cheerily and with no rancor. It may not be "a miracle of the spirit," but it is something to take pride in. When the bloody struggle in Europe is over, will there be any such free and frank union of the men who are left? We should not vaunt, but we may be thankful that the war here left such medicable scars.

It is understood to be President Wilson's intention to reappoint Interstate Commerce Commissioner Charles C.
McCord, whose term will expire early next winter. Such appointment would be approved by all who have observed carefully the work of the commission and of its members.

Commissioner McCord led the way in the investigation of the New York,
New Haven and Hartford, with results which to some seemed at first unduly severe, but which are now admitted to have brought about a real cleaning up of one of the rottenest railway management situations in American history.

He also was prominent in the investigation of the hard coal monopoly.
These activities have caused Mr. Mc-Cord to be regarded, and denounced, in quarters not wholly disinterested, as "radical" in his tendencies. As a matter of fact, his course has been progressive but not destructive. He has been instrumental in curbing gross abuses. He has also stood fast for decent treatment of the railroads as a whole, and for severity only toward railroad managements whose offenses richly deserved it. None of his decisions have been reversed by the Supreme Court of the United States.

President Wilson will make no mistake in retaining a public servant so well proved.

President Barker and the remainder of the faculty of State University are to be highly commended for their determination to enforce their rules of discipline at the University.

Prior to the opening of the college year due notice was given in writing that hazing would not be permitted and that any violation of this rule would be followed by dismissal. This notice was so spread abroad that every old student was notified in advance of what was expected of him and precisely what would follow if he proved rebellious.

In spite of this early and kindly warning, the rule was violated and soon after college opened there were exhibitions of ruffianism which cannot be tolerated if any discipline at all is to be maintained at this great institution.
Every student who is known to have been guilty of hazing should be dismissed, without hope of reinstatement.
In no other way can the university authorities hope to demonstrate that they and not the students are managing the institution, and the sooner this becomes apparent the better.

WHY IS IT?

Why is it, it is often asked, that people in small town can find no better business than prying into other people's business, and then exaggerating the truth in regard to the same. People who pretend to be Christians, who attend church regularly, who, in the sight of their neighbors are generous and charitable, yet who, without the slightest provocation, tell what is not true and try to ruin a reputation or good name. While they would not steal from them worldly goods, yet they rob him or her of what is more precious than gold—a good reputation. Why can't people practice the christianity that they preach and "do unto others as you would have them do unto you?"

GREAT REVIVAL

AT METHODIST CHURCH TO BEGIN OCTOBER 11TH.

REV. E. K. PIKE, OF FALMOUTH, KY.

What promises to be one of the greatest revivals ever held in the city will begin at the Methodist church on Monday evening October 11th. One of the most noted preachers of this denomination, Rev. E. K. Pike, of Falmouth, Ky., will conduct these services, which will continue from week to week as the interest is manifested. Nothing adds more to these revivals than good music and the church here is to be congratulated upon securing the services of Prof.
James V. Read, of Oakland City, Ind., to conduct the singing. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these meetings, looking toward the salvation of souls, the upbuilding of God's kingdom and uniting with the church of your choice. Remember these services begin next Monday night.

BUYING MULES

Messrs W. C. King and R. H. Price, of Townsville N. C., have been in the city for the past week buying mules for the Southern trade. They purchased of different parties throughout the county fifty-two head in all at an average per head of $115. The mules were from four to six years old and were equally divided as to sex. They were shipped yesterday to Townsville.

MUSICAL COMEDY CO

There was a splendid Musical Comedy Company at the Romans Opera House
this week. They rendered singing specialties and vaudeville every night to large and pleased audiences. The act is added to the regular big feature picture program without any advance in the price of admission. Composing the Empire Musical Comedy Company are Jack Lenore, manager; Wallace Burnett, straight juvenile man; Dan Sherwood, comedian; Mrs. Lola Burnett, ingenue and character parts; Jack Lenore, specialties. Complete change of program every night, also new songs.

STANLEY

To Speak At Stanford Next Monday.

The announcement that Hon. A. O.
Stanley will speak in Stanford next Monday afternoon, it being county court day there, will attract a large crowd from this county who are friends and warm supporters of the next Governor. For the past week Mr. Stanley has been speaking in the mountain counties and from reports that are coming in he has been greeted with the largest audiences that any Democratic campaigner has ever received in that section. It may be impossible for Mr.
Stanley to speak in Garrard county, and for this reason a large crowd is expected to hear him next Monday in Stanford.

BLUES, BLUES, BLUES.

The Memphis Blues, the Florida Blues
Blue Monday Blues, and the Wind That Blew, must back up and take off their hats to the popular "Coburns Blues" when they come down the street next Saturday ahead of the minstrel band with Coburns Greater Minstrels. Bigger, better than ever, an ALL NEW show. This company delivers the goods this time and all the time. At the Romans Opera House on Saturday Oct.
9th.

OH THAT BEAUTIFUL BAND.

What is it about a band that starts
the feet beating time, the heart thumping, the smiles showing and the voice humming some favorite air? Why do the youngsters follow the band, the parade, the people gather and applaud it, and on the day of the expected favorite minstrel show, await the coming of the noonday street concert and inspiring strains of the "band"? Nobody seems to know, nobody seems to care. They want it, and they will have it, although few other theatrical attractions carry a band or depend on it for advertising and the days business.
Joe Coburn manager and owner of the big Minstrels which we look for and enjoy each season, says that "some Swede who liked to work, started the fashion along with silk hats and long tailed coats, and it has been epidemic ever since". His "daddy" wished a carnot on him while a small boy, adversity kicked him into minstrelsy, and popular demand has kept him "looking and tooting" one ever since. Notwithstanding these "conditions" however "Coburn" is always obliging and in evidence with his band whenever this popular attractions reaches Lancaster and none of his friends will listen to his oft repeated threat to "get a leader man and quit". The show is coming next Saturday night at the Romans Opera House the band is coming, and is "Coburn renigins in concert, the writer of this announcement will have a remedy that will produce him as usual.

EFFICIENT NURSE

 FINDS ASSISTANCE
Mrs. Anna L. Bryan Is Given Relief By Premier Preparation.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6th.—Mrs. Anna
L. Bryan, an efficient trained nurse, who resides at 301 Crescent Court, Crescent Hill, this city, is among the hundreds of Louisville women who have used Tanlac, the premier preparation, with the most beneficial results. Mrs.
Bryan said:

"I find Tanlac very fine. I have been using it for more than a week for gastritis. I have been treated by several physicians with very poor results.
At times I vomited blood, and lost weight steadily.

"I find Tanlac has given me great relief. Since I began taking the medicine I have noticed a marked improvement in my condition. I have ceased to vomit blood and have begun taking on weight. In fact, Tanlac has made me feel like a different woman, and I wish that very excellent medicine great success."

Tanlac, the premier preparation, is of unusual benefit in cases of stomach, liver and kidney trouble, rheumatism, nervousness, unsound sleep, faulty circulation, pallid complexion, catarrhal and bronchial troubles, coughs, colds and the like. It is especially beneficial as a tonic for general debilitated persons' blood purifier and tissue builder.
Tanlac can be obtained in Lancaster at R. E. McRoberts drug store and in Bryantville at Becker, Ballard & Scott.

A BAD EXAMPLE.

"Happy for our nation," cries Mr.
Bryan, "that we have in the White House at this time a President who believes in setting before the Old World a good example, instead of following the bad example which the Old World sets."

Why did Mr. Bryan desert his exemplary President? Why did he set before the New World and the Old the bad example of a Minister of Foreign Affairs who did all in his poor power to injure his country and his chief?
Why did he colloquy with Dumba and at a moment of grave international controvery and complication misrepresent
the patriotic policy of the President and the United States?

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER.

This is the way it looks to a writer who has traveled some, and watched for reasons why a town prospers. He says this about the town newspaper, which you should reprint for the benefit of your readers:

A LOCAL SUBSCRIBER.

"Stand by your town newspaper. If there is anything in your town worth talking about, ten chances to one your little town paper had a hand in putting it there, and if there exists any unsightly or unsavory nuisance, twenty chances to one it will stay there until your town editor sees it or smells it and wipes his pen on the town board's breaches. If anybody beyond the walls of your little burg ever learns that there is such a place as Penceville, it will be through town oracle.

"Every village gets its money's worth in the village newspaper. It's the wagon that carries all your good things to market. It ought to be kept in good repair. In many cases it would pay to grease it, paint it, keep its running gear in shape and shelter it at the public expense.

"Stand by your local newspaper.
It's the guardian and defender of every interest, the forerunner and pioneer of every advance movement and the sturdy advocate of law and order.
Take it away, and it would not be six months before the town would look as if it had been doped. Business would drag, society would yawn and grass would grow between the cobbles."

OCTOBER 9 CLEANUP DAY

A proclamation has been issued by Governor James B. McCreary designating October 9th as cleanup day, urging the citizens of Kentucky to take special pains in removing causes for fire. He pointed out that one-third the loss by fire could be prevented by proper precaution, and that if Kentuckians would only realize this the fire rate charged by insurance companies might be lessened considerably.

Governor McCreary urged also that children in the public schools be led to take up the movement by being told of the advantages of such movement, for both the civic value and the financial improvement.

For the last two years he has been house surgeon at the Kings Co. Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y. To his medical knowledge he adds a pleasing personality.

OLD FRIEND SOON TO RETURN.

The near completion to the repairs on the court house brings gladness to our hearts because it means the early return of an old friend—the Town Clock. Those of us who have been accustomed to look into its smiling face since our infancy have missed it sadly, and will venture to say that there is not an inhabitant of Lancaster who has not looked up to where the clock should be at least fifty times every day since it was taken down. Some of us since its enforced idleness have only known the time of the day by the coming of darkness. We were always accustomed to set our watches and clocks by it, what matter if it was from fifteen to twenty minutes different from "railroad time" we carried "town time" any way, and we will be delighted when we may have something besides the sun to depend upon to notify us when day merges into night.

Prof. James V. Read, of Oakland City, Ind.

This talented singer and musician will have charge of music during the revival which will begin at the Methodist church next Monday night.

SAME CONDITIONS

PREVAIL HERE.

Stanford has recently organized a "Credit Association", and, so says the Interior Journal, will soon prepare a list of the citizens of Lincoln county, with the correct commercial rating of each one.

This move was actuated by a recent visit from a representative of a Louisville clothing house, who took orders for about a hundred suits of clothes, a great many of them sold to fellows who owed home merchants for at least two or three suits. The same conditions prevail in Lancaster, and we suppose in most other towns throughout the state.

People patronize home merchants when they are broke, often failing to settle when their days of prosperity come, then when they have ready money to spend, they patronize some city firm, allowing the home merchant to whistle for the long past due account. We await with many misgivings the outcome of the organization of Stanford's Credit Association, and if it proves a success, it will certainly be adopted in Lancaster.

VOTE FOR TOM BALLARD.

For Sheriff

To the voters of Garrard County: It is generally known that the late Curt A. Robinson was elected sheriff of Garrard county by one of the largest majorities ever given any man, and that George T. Ballard Jr., was his chief deputy, George T. Ballard Sr., his father, being a partner with Mr. Robinson in the emoluments or fees of the office. If Mr. Ballard is elected for the two years, yet remaining of the term, he is pledged, and justly so, to give the widow of Mr. Robinson half the profits or fees of the office, which as certainly belong to her as any property he left her. The truth is, an office is a most sacred property right, being bestowed by the people, the highest authority, and it would be the grossest injustice to deprive the holders of such property of their rights. It is not believed that the voters of Garrard county will overlook the principles of justice and equity in this race. If the office belonged to Robinson and Ballard before Mr. Robinson's death, the remainder of the term belongs to Ballard and Mr. Robinson's widow.

If the voters will calmly consider this, as a matter of right and justice, they will not recall or revoke what they have done, and Tom Ballard will be elected by an overwhelming majority.

KIPLING TELLS OF MOUNTAIN TOP STRIPPED BY GERMAN ARTILLERY

Smashed Trees, Split Stones and Powdered Soil on Alsation Heights.

Villagers, Not Warned of Bombardment, Calmly Take Their Tea as Shells Burst.

We present below the fifth of six articles from the pen of Rudyard Kipling, under the general title of "France at War on the Frontier of Civilization," describing the impressions of a visit to the fighting line in France.

By RUDYARD KIPLING.

[Copyright, 1915, by the Sun Printing and Publishing Association.]

VERY early in the morning I met Alan Breck with a half head of bullet scrapes across the bridge of his nose and an Alpine cap over one ear. His people a few hundred years ago had been Scotch. He bore a Scotch name and still recognized the head of his clan, but his French occasionally ran into German words, for he was Alsation on one side.

"This," he explained, "is the very best country in the world to fight in. It is picturesque and full of cover. I'm a gunner. I've been here for months. It's lovely."

It might have been the hills under Mussoorie, and what our ears expected to do in it I could not understand, but our demon driver, who had been a road racer, took the seventy horsepower Mercedes and threaded the narrow valleys as well as occasional half Swiss villages full of Alpine troops at a rate of thirty miles an hour. He shot up a new made road more like Mussoorie than ever and did not fall down the hillside even once. An ammunition mule of a mountain battery met him at a tight corner and began to climb a tree.

"There isn't another place in France where that could happen," said Alan. "I tell you this is a magnificent country."

The mule was hauled down by his tail after he had reached the lower branches and went on through the woods, his ammunition boxes jinking on his back for all the world as if he were rejoining his battery at Jutogh. One expected to meet the little hill people bent under their loads under the forest gloom. The light, the color, the smell of wood smoke, pine needles, wet earth and warm mule were all Himalayas. Only the Mercedes was violently and loudly a stranger.

Near the German Positions.

"Halt!" said Alan at last, when she had done everything except imitate the mule.

"The road continues," said the demon driver seductively.

"Yes, but they will hear you if you go on. Stop and wait. We've a mountain battery to look at."

They were not at work for a moment, and the commander, a grim, forceful man, showed me some details of their construction. When we left them in their lower it looked like a hill priest's wayside shrine. We heard them singing through the steep, descending pines. They, too, like the "75" men, seem to have no pet name in service.

It was a poisonously blind country. The woods blocked all sense of direction. Above and around the ground was at any angle you please, and all sounds were split up and muddled by the tree trunks, which acted as silencers. High above us the respectable, all concealing forest had turned into sparse, ghastly blue sticks of timber—an assembly of leper trees around a bald mountain top.

"That's where we're going," said Alan. "Isn't it an adorable country?"

Shots Are Exchanged.

A machine gun loosed a few shots in the fumbling style of her kind when they feel for an opening. A couple of rifle shots answered. They might have been half a mile away or a hundred yards below.

An adorable country! We climbed up till we found once again a complete tea garden; little sunk houses almost invisible in the brown pink recesses of the thick forest. Here the trenches began, and with them for the next few hours life in two dimensions—length and breadth.

You could have eaten your dinner almost anywhere off the swift dry ground, for steep slopes favored draining. There was no lack of timber, and there was unlimited labor. It had made nest, double length dugouts, where the wounded could be laid during their passage down the mountainside; well lined dugouts for sleeping and eating, overhead protections and tool sheds where needed and, as one came nearer the working face, very clever cellars to protect against trench sweepers.

Men passed on their business—a squad with a captured machine gun, which they tested in a sheltered dip; armors at their benches busy with sick rifles, fatigue parties for straw rations and ammunition, long processions of single blue figures turned sideways between brown, sunless walls. One understood after a while the nightmare that lays hold of trench state men until the dreamer, watching seemingly forever in those blind mazes, finds himself after agonizing centuries out again in the white blaze and horror of the mined front.

There were no trees above us now. Their trunks lay along the edge of the trench, built in with stones where necessary, or sometimes overhanging it in ragged splinters or bushy tops. Bits of cloth not French showed too in the uneven line of debris at the trench tip, and some thoughtful soul had marked an unexpected boche trench sweeper as not to be touched. It was a young lawyer from Paris who pointed that out to me.

Devastation Everywhere.

We met the colonel at the head of an indescribable pit of ruin, full of sunshine, whose steps ran down a very steep hillside under the lee of an almost vertically plunging parapet. To the left of that parapet the whole hillside was one great of smashed trees, split stones and powdered soil. It might have been a ragpicker's dump heap on a colossal scale. Alan looked at it critically. I think he had helped make it not long before.

"We are on the top of the hill now, and the boches are below," said he. "We gave them a very fair sickener lately."

"This," said the colonel, "is the front line."

There were overhead guards against hand bombs, which disposed me to believe him, but what convinced me most was a corporal urging us in whispers not to talk so loud. The men were at dinner, and a good smell of food filled the trench. This was the first smell I had encountered in my long travels up hill—a mixed, entirely wholesome flavor of stew, leather, earth and rifle oil. A proportion of men were standing to arms while others ate, but dinner time is slack time among animals, and it was close to noon.

Boches Get Their Soup.

"The boches got their soup a few days ago," some one whispered. I thought of pulverized hillside and hoped it had been hot enough.

We edged along the still trench where the soldiers stared with justified contempt. I thought, upon the civilian who scuttled through their life for a few emotional minutes in order to make words out of their blood. It reminded me of coming in late to a play and incommencing the long line of packed stalls. The whispered dialogue was much the same.

"Pardon; I beg your pardon, monsieur. To the right, monsieur. If monsieur will lower his head; one sees best from here, monsieur."

It was their day and night long business, carried through without display or heat or doubt or indecision. Those off duty not five feet behind in the dugout were deep in their papers or their meals or their letters, while death stood ready every minute to drop down into the narrow cut from out of the narrow strip of unconcerned sky.

The Germans In Sight.

And for the better part of a week one had skirted miles of such a frieze. The loopholes not in use were plugged rather like old fashioned hives. Said the colonel, removing a plug:

"Here are the boches. Look and you'll see their sandbags."

Through the jumble of riven trees and stones one saw what might have been a bit of green sacking.

"They're about seven meters distant here," the colonel went on. That was true too.

We entered a little fortalice with a cannon in it in an embrasure, which at that moment struck me as unnecessary, but it was not until it was nearly closed by a frail packing case lid. The colonel sat him down in front of it and explained the theory of this sort of redoubt.

"By the way," he said to a gunner at last, "can't you find something better than that? I think it's too light." He twitched the lid aside. "Get a log of wood or something."

I loved that colonel. He knew his men, and he knew the boches had them marked down like birds. When he said they were beside dead trees or behind boulders sure enough, there they were; but, as I have said, dinner hour is always slack, and even when we came to a place where a section of trench had been bashed open by trench sweepers and it was recommended to duck and hurry nothing much happened.

Stillness Really Uncanny.

The uncanny thing was the absence of movement in the boche trenches. Sometimes one imagined that one smelt strange tobacco or heard a rifle bolt working after a shot; otherwise they were as still as a pig at noonday.

We held on through the maze, past trench sweepers of handy, light pattern, with their screw tailed charge all ready and a grave or so, and when I came on men who merely stood within easy reach of their rifles I knew I was in the second line. When they lay frankly at ease in their dugouts I knew it was the third. A shotgun would have sprinkled all three.

"No that plain," said Alan; "no hunting for gun positions. The hills are full of them and trenches close together and commanding each other. You see what a beautiful country it is."

The colonel confirmed this, but from another point of view war was his business, as the still woods could tes-

try. But his hobby was his trenches. He had tapped mountain streams and dug out a laundry where a man could wash his shirt and go up and be killed in it all in a morning, had drained trenches so muddy that to stretch in them was an offense, and at the bottom of the hill it looked like a hydro-pathic establishment on the stage. He had created baths where a half battalion at a time could wash.

Didn't Tell of Past Battles.

He never told me how all that country had been fought over as fiercely as Ypres in the west nor what blood had gone down the valleys before his trenches were pushed over the scuffed mountain top. No, he stretched out new endeavors in earth and stones and trees for the comfort of his men on that populous mountain, and there came a priest who was a subaltern out of a wood of snuff brown shadows and half veiled trunks.

Would it please me to look at a chapel? It was all open to the hillside, most tenderly and devoutly done in rustic work with readings of peeled branches and panels of moss and thatch—St. Hubert's own shrine. I saw the hunters who passed before it going to the chase on the far side of the mountain where their game lay.

Alan carried me off to tea the same evening in a town where he seemed to know everybody. He had spent the afternoon on another mountain top inspecting gun positions whereby he had been shelled—"a little marmite," is slang for it—and he had spotted a boche position which was marvellous. "And we may get shelled now," he added hopefully. "They shell this town whenever they think of it. Perhaps they'll shell us at tea."

It was a quaintly beautiful little place with its mixture of French and German ideas, its old bridge and gentle minded river between cultivated hills. The sandbagged cellar doors, the ruined houses and the holes in the pavement looked as unreal as violence of a cinema against that soft and simple setting.

Bursting Shells Are Warnings.

The people were abroad in the streets, and the little children were playing. A big shell gives notice enough for one to get shelter if shelter is near enough. That appears to be as much as any one expects in a world where one is shelled, and that world had settled down to it. The people's lips are a little firmer, the modeling of the brows is a little more pronounced, and maybe there is a change in the expression of the eyes, but nothing that the casual afternoon caller need particularly notice.

The house where we took tea was the big house of the place, old and massive, a treasure house of ancient furniture. It had everything that the heart of moderate man could desire—gardens, garages, outbuildings and the air of peace that goes with beauty in age. It stood over a high collarage, and opposite the cellar door was a brand new blindage of earth packed between timbers.

Tea During Bombardment.

The cellar was a hospital with its beds and stores, and under the electric light the orderly waited, ready for cases to be carried down out of the streets.

"Yes, they are all civil cases," said he. "They come without much warning—a woman gashed by falling timber, a child with its temple crushed by a flying stone, an urgent amputation case, and so on. One never knows."

Bombardment, the boche textbooks say, is designed to terrify the civil population so that they may put pressure on their politicians to conclude a peace. In real life men are very rarely soothed by the sight of their women being tortured.

We took tea in the house upstairs with a propriety and an interchange of compliments that suited the little occasion. There was no attempt to disguise the existence of the bombardment, but it was not allowed to overshadow talk of lighter matters. I know one guest who sat through it as near as might be inarticulate with wonder, but he was English, and when Alan asked him whether he had enjoyed himself he said, "Oh, yes, thank you, very much."

"Nice people, aren't they?" Alan went on.

"Oh, very nice—and such good tea." He managed to convey a few of his sentiments to Alan after dinner.

"But what else could the people have done?" said he. "They are French."

SEEK NAMES OF RETIRED MEN.

Navy Wants to Register All Available Supernumerary Officers.

As a part of the program of preparedness for war, the navy department has instituted, through the bureau of navigation, an inquiry regarding the commissioned personnel on the naval retired list to ascertain how many retired officers would be available in time of need either to take duty on warships or in navy yards and stations. The inquiry includes the retired officers of the Marine corps as well as of the navy.

Hereafter the bureau of navigation will keep two lists of officers available for duty in time of war. On one list will appear the names of those of the active list, and on the other the names of those who have been retired. It is understood that this classification does not apply to those officers who have been retired for age. The inquiry goes out to officers who have retired voluntarily, who have been "plucked," or who have been retired for some physical disability which might not stand in the way of performing some special line of duty required somewhere in the naval establishment in time of hostilities.

Japanese Have New Process Which Has Proved Successful.

The department of commerce at Washington has received a collection of fishing lines illustrating the ingenuity of the Japanese spinning gins, manufacturers. They are of the "invisible" sort, and the makers assert that they have proved very successful. They are made of a very fine silk, boiled in a preparation of oil and glue and calendered under heavy pressure. They are called the tegus lines, and the silk of which they are made is from wild cocoons found in the mountains.

GIVES LIFE FOR ONE OF HIS CREW

Survivors Tell of Thrilling Wreck on Bermudian Coast.

CAUGHT IN A HURRICANE.

Captain Bothe Sought Life Preserver For Fireman and Was Only One Lost. Bermudian Also Brings In Thirty-three Survivors of Wreck in Mid-Atlantic Ocean.

The Quebec liner Bermudian arrived in New York from Bermuda with sixty shipwrecked sailors among her passengers and brought the story of how Captain Ernest Bothe of the British steamship Pollokshields, caught off the Bermudian coast in a hurricane and fog, ran his vessel ashore head-on and sacrificed his life while trying to insure the safety of one of his crew.

This story has added interest because the Pollokshields was, up to the outbreak of the war, the Hamburg-American liner Graecia, plying between New York and West Indian and Central American ports.

The Graecia slipped out of New York harbor with a cargo of coal for the German cruiser Karlsruhe, was captured by the British, taken to Gibraltar and sold. Her name was changed to the Pollokshields, and she was used by the admiralty as a supply ship.

Had Cargo of Explosives. The Pollokshields, with a crew of thirty-two men, left Cardiff, Wales, for Bermuda on Aug. 22 with a cargo of shells and gunpowder. In mid-Atlantic she encountered the great gulf hurricane and fought wind, fog and seas for five days. Captain Bothe had lost his bearings when at 8 o'clock in the morning of Sept. 7 the fog lifted and he found himself almost ashore on Elba beach on the south coast of Bermuda.

He tried in vain to get his vessel away from the reefs, but the gale was too strong. Nothing remained to be done but run ashore. Captain Bothe ordered the fires banked, called all the men up from below and assembled them on deck, tied down his whistle cord and headed his ship for the coral shore.

The journey was not a long one, and the Pollokshields soon struck, hurling her nose in a great smother of waves, beating over the reefs. She benched herself in such a way that she rested on a shelf of coral, and in a few hours she began to break in two just forward of the mainmast.

Captain Gives Up His Life. Captain Bothe discovered that one of his firemen did not have a life preserver. The fireman said he had not been able to find one. The captain started off for a preserver just as the ship broke in two, and the last his men saw of him he was being carried away on the crest of a wave.

The rear end of the ship slipped off into deep water, and much of the cargo fell out into the sea. The thirty-two survivors were taken off after forty hours by Antonio Marshall, a Portuguese fisherman, who manipulated the wholeboat through the surf and got it alongside the stranded hulk.

Five of the survivors of the Pollokshields remained in Bermuda to work at recovering such of the shells as remain in the wreck. The others will remain in New York a few days and then start for England.

Besides the survivors of the Pollokshields, the Bermudian brought thirty-three survivors of the wreck in mid-Atlantic on Aug. 15 of the Italian steamship Purificatione, bound from Genoa to Norfolk, Va. The captain and crew of the Purificatione abandoned her several hours before she went to the bottom and were picked up a couple of days later by the British steamship Cayo Gitmano, which took them to Bermuda.

The Right Place

The ideal place to live would be a farm with meadows stretching wide. And right next door a grocery. And movies on a screen to fill.

A theater across the way. With all the latest comedies. And next to that a grandstand, say. Where one could watch ten inning ties.

The cowbells ringing in the lanes. While taxicabs and cars go by. A station near with frequent trains. Next restaurants and open sky.

An apple tree 'neath which to sit. And watch the traffic in the street. And movies on a screen to fill. While breezes blew from off the wheat.

A brook to cross, a band to snort; The city sights, a country view; A rural urban home, in short, I think a place like that would do.

GERMAN SOLDIERS BUSY MAKING WINTER WEAR.

Thousands of Shoes and Suits of Clothing Turned Out Daily.

Leipzig is busily engaged in preparing winter clothing for German soldiers. Before the war began the military outfitting business there was easily taken care of by a small plant just outside the city, employing not more than 250 men. The few wooden buildings of the plant have been added to until they now cover acres of ground, where some 4,000 men and women are employed. The output has increased to 3,000 shoes, 3,000 coats and several thousands of pairs of trousers a day.

Most of the men employees are of military age and capacity. They wear fatigue uniforms and live under military control in wooden barracks adjoining the plant. Few of them but could on a few hours' notice move out to the fighting front and exchange needles and tools for rifles. Simply they are more valuable as tailors and shoemakers than as infantrymen or artillerymen.

It has been reported that Germany is short of leather and that its supplies of cotton and woolen goods are not as large as they should be, but there is no indication of it at the Leipzig plant.

Leipzig is but one of a large number of German cities that have had to adapt themselves to army needs. Cannel, for instance, has turned over its huge, new and expensive public hall and gathering place to the making of clothing for the army, and in the rooms that once were the scenes of banquets, dances and merry-making there today are piled thousands upon thousands of uniforms, and in its corridors hundreds of soldiers sit cross legged on tables, busily sewing.

PEACHES GIVEN AWAY FREE.

Doctor's Offer Heads Friends He Never Counted Toward Orchard.

"Come on in; the peaches are fine! Pick 'em!"

This invitation was extended by Dr. S. C. G. Watkins of Wyatbede lodge, North Caldwell, N. J., to all his friends and acquaintances. The doctor has a big orchard, and after gathering all the fruit he needed for his own use he did the neighborly thing.

The response was something marvelous. Dr. Watkins never realized how many of his friends owned automobiles, wagons, pushers and the like until he saw the steady line of vehicles heading through his gates.

The peaches were unusually good and unusually large. The peaches grown by Dr. Watkins are of the Morris White variety, particularly tasteful. The visitors carried away more than 200 bushels, and the orchard was practically depleted when they departed.

THREE LEGGED PULLET.

Extra Claw Aids Chicken to Make Record in Digging Worms.

A. W. Pierce is pointing with considerable pride to a three legged barred Plymouth Rock pullet which he has developed on his poultry farm near Verona, N. J. How it happened Pierce isn't sure, but he knows the father to be a great runner, having been chased out of the garden patch some hundreds of times last spring.

The pullet, now four months old, is twice as large as its brothers and sisters, being able to turn up 50 per cent more worms in a given time with its extra claw. Mr. Pierce is greatly pleased with having three drumsticks grow where only two grew before and is working over a system of matings which will now give him a three or even four legged fowl for table use.

MAPLES TO MARK GRAVES.

Emblem of Canada to Memorialize Her Gallant Soldiers.

How to mark permanently the resting places of the thousands of Canadian soldiers who have fallen in France and in France is a matter to which the people of the Dominion are giving considerable thought.

From a member of the Overseas club comes the happy suggestion that, since the maple leaf is the emblem of Canada, maple trees be planted over the isolated graves and along the roads leading to the cemeteries. He has already sent millions of seeds to France and is to send more.

The species chosen is the sugar maple, and so France in time will have a beautiful memorial of the

CARTHAGE WOMAN

TELLS HAPPY STORY

Mrs. Laura Duke of Carthage, Tenn., was a victim of stomach disorders for several years. She lost appetite and her weight fell off. She could not rest at night.

She took May's Wonderful Remedy—just a few doses—and found herself restored.

In fact, Mrs. Duke's recovery was so rapid she was afraid that it could be only temporary. So she waited from September, when she took the remedy, until the following February to pass judgment. Then she wrote:

"I write you in regard to your wonderful stomach remedy that I took last September. I feel better than I have in five years.

"My weight was 127½ pounds; now it is 147½, and I can eat anything I want. I sleep well at night. I would have written before, but I wanted to see how I got along."

May's Wonderful Remedy gives permanent results for stomach, liver and intestinal ailments. Eat as much and whatever you like. No more distress after eating, pressure of gas in the stomach and around the heart. Get one bottle of your druggist now and try it on an absolute guarantee—if not satisfactory money will be returned.

Message No. 5

To the Business Men of Lancaster

The prosperity of a city is in direct proportion to the local pride. Where local pride runs high, prosperity has a firm foothold. Such a town is a good place to live and do business in.

Paint helps to a remarkable degree in spreading an impression of prosperity throughout a community. It gives a fresh, new, inviting look wherever it is used. Municipal buildings, stores and homes feel its good effects. Growing business is bound to be one of the direct results of a liberal use of paint, not from any magic in the paint, but because of the pride which is stimulated.

LEST YOU FORGET.

The Democrats of Kentucky must stand shoulder to shoulder against the common enemy. They should forget the disappointments that came to some of them in the primary. Last year after Beckham beat him in the primary for the nomination for the United States Senate, Stanley got behind Beckham and stumped the state from one end to the other in Beckham's behalf. The men who supported McChesney and McDermott in the primary should follow the example set by Stanley and show that, in spite of differences within the party all Kentucky Democrats stand together when fighting Republicans.—Danville Messenger.

MULE COLTS PLENTIFUL.

Last court day was "mule court day" in Lancaster, and what appeared to be the largest number ever seen here was on the market, but the great majority of them were taken back home by the farmers, they being unwilling to accept the small prices offered for them. The European war, while creating a demand, and a resultant high price, for many of our products, has had the reverse effect upon the horse and mule market. Industries which were accustomed to use a great number of mules, especially the cotton industry, are so depressed that they are not in demand, and consequently are scarcely salable at all, and when a market is found, very small prices are realized.

GERMANY

Accedes To American Demands.

Germany has completely acceded to the American demands for settlement of the Arabic case. That government in a letter presented yesterday by its ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, to Secretary Lansing, disavows the sinking of the vessel, announces that it has notified the submarine commander who made the attack, expresses regret for the loss of American lives, and agrees to pay an indemnity to their families. This settlement with Germany leaves the Administration free to join issues with Great Britain over the injustice of the Order-in-Council and the hardships placed on American commerce as a result of England's "paper" blockade.

HAYS METCALF ARRESTED FRIENDS OF FAMILY SHOCKED At Action Of Authorities.

Much sympathy is felt for the family of Hays Metcalf, who is a son of Mr. J. M. Metcalf, of Paint Lick and were shocked to read in last Sunday's Courier-Journal that he had been arrested in Louisville last Sunday and taken to Indianapolis for trial as a result of his connection with the failure of the Farmers Merchant Bank, of Cicero, Ind., which occurred last February. Mr. Metcalf together with his wife and two children, have spent the summer with his parents at Paint Lick and has many friends there who are pained at his arrest. He has told his friends often during the summer that he was innocent of any wrong doing and all are confident that it will be so proven at the trial which begins next Monday. It is also claimed that he had no intention of forfeiting his bond, which fact makes his arrest even more strange. The sensational story in the Courier-Journal said:

"Mr. Holmes and Sheriff Waddell said they had been led to believe Metcalf would not appear for trial. The banker's alleged efforts to keep his movements secret since his release on bond and his refusal, according to his accusers, to answer registered letters mailed to him were advanced by the Indiana men as their reasons for believing the accused would not appear for trial. That he received the numerous letters they mailed him, they said, was evidenced by the signed receipts returned to them by postoffice authorities."

Metcalf said following his arrest that it had been his intention to return to Noblesville to answer the indictments pending against him. His arrest here, he contended, was a useless precaution. The prisoner denied that he was in any way guilty of the charges against him. Inability to convert notes and other outstanding assets into cash during the money stringency of the past year led to the breaking of his bank, Metcalf said. That he was innocent of embezzlement and conspiracy for the purpose of embezzlement would be proved when his case is heard, he said.

The closing of the four banks attracted nation-wide interest. The institutions affected were Farmers' Merchants' Bank of Cicero; the Hamilton Trust Co. at Noblesville; the Citizens State Bank of Arcadia, and the Carmel Bank of Carmel.

Inspectors from the State Auditor's office gave evidence before a special grand jury convened in Hamilton county May 4 and the indictment and arrest of seven prominent financiers connected with the institutions followed. Each was charged with embezzlement and conspiracy to defraud.

The trials of the indicted officials will begin this week, Sheriff Waddell said.

Charged with conspiracy and embezzlement in connection with the closing of four banks in Hamilton county, Indiana, last February after an examination by the State Auditor of Indiana revealed the alleged loss of more than $250,000, Rutherford H. Metcalf, formerly president of the Farmers' Merchant Bank, Cicero, Ind., was arrested at 11 o'clock last night by Detective Sergts. Warren and McElliott as he was walking into The Seelbach.

That Metcalf would be in Louisville last night was learned by Sheriff Oscar Waddell, of Hamilton county, who came to this city yesterday afternoon armed with six indictments against Metcalf. Sheriff Waddell called at the office of Col. H. Watson Lindsey and asked the aid of the local department in locating the man he sought. The detectives were assigned to the case.

Metcalf was with his attorney, N. W. Harding of Indianapolis, who had arranged a meeting with his client here when he was seized. He has been visiting relatives at Paint Lick, Ky., and it was through a long distance telephone conversation between the former bank president and his attorney that Hamilton county officials learned of the conference here.

Five indictments returned by the Hamilton county grand jury charge Metcalf with embezzlement and a sixth alleges conspiracy in connection with the closing of the banks. Metcalf was arrested last winter soon after the bank of which he was president was found to be insolvent and ordered closed by Dale C. Crittenger, an Indiana auditor. He was released on bond of $1,000 and left Indiana immediately after his release, Sheriff Waddell charged.

W. E. Holmes, of Cicero, one of the men who signed Metcalf's bond, came to Louisville with Sheriff Waddell. Metcalf's case is set for trial at Noblesville, county seat of Hamilton county, Monday morning, and his arrest was made as a precautionary measure to insure his appearance to answer to the indictments against him.

The loss was made possible, it is alleged, through a network of loans negotiated in a circle between the affected banks. Paper was found which called for the necessary funds, but the cash was missing, Waddell said.

The bank of which Metcalf was president was closed after the cashier was unable to pay a check for $6,000 presented by a depositor and later investigation showed there was only $132 in the vaults, it was said. The bank's deposits amounted to $187,000. Detective Sergts. Warren and McElliott took their prisoner last night to the office of Maj. Patrick Ridge. Sheriff Waddell produced requisition papers, honored by the Governors of Kentucky and Indiana, for the return of Metcalf and Maj. Ridge turned the prisoner over to the Indiana Sheriff. The former banker requested that he be allowed to spend the night at the Seelbach and the Sheriff agreed, but accompanied him.
